OUR STORY

We have always had a great passion for food. For the last few years we have followed our dream of cooking amazing, delicious traditional Greek dishes. Throughout the years, my family has always loved cooking. It all started when my great-grandfather owned a taverna in a place called Plaka in Athens. It opened in 1932 and is still there to this day under new ownership.

As a child, my Nanny Roula would always cook us traditional Greek dishes, including my favourite chicken and lemon soup called “Avgolemono”. Although this is an acquired taste, I’m sure her famous Greek-style meatballs would meet everyone’s expectations of Greek flavour in one dish. Growing up with these amazing European flavours has always inspired me to cook.

We now continue this dream by bringing our flavour and traditions to Harry’s bar & restaurant and we look forward to serving you all.
